

TRIP REPORTER.

Austria, Europe and Middle East, newsletter, Tirol, Trip Reviews

THE MOUNTAIN ART OF ADAM ATTEW, AUSTRIA

09/03/2020 by Michael Cranmer.

Artists sometimes suffer for their art. J M W Turner famously tied himself to a ship's mast in a storm to capture the full force of nature.

Following in his brushstrokes, another English artist, Adam Attew, spent February 2,670m up an Austrian alp painting the mountains.

An honorary local right down to his lederhosen, he turned up each day as Artist-in-Residence at the Hohe Mut Alm where skiers could drop in and see him put the finishing touches to a collection on show in the futuristic new Carat Centre in Obergurgl.

Mountains are his obsession and the exhibition featured work from Sweden to Canada, but Austria is his spiritual home. "I carry a camera wherever I ski," Adam told me. "The light changes constantly and I can capture the scene then work on a painting back in my studio". As a highly-qualified instructor, he knows a thing or two about skiing and thinks nothing of heading off into the backcountry, and digging a snow hole to sleep in overnight ready for the best light. "Early mornings and dusk are magical times for photos," he said, "I want people to share my experiences through my work".

The paintings are finely detailed, and Adam has developed an exceptional ability to portray that particular transparency of backlight and shadow that comes from sunlight mirrored off snow at high altitudes. This skill is reflected in sales of his work. "I've already sold one painting and had a buyer very interested in another before the exhibition was even open to the public," Adam said. Prices indicate the painstaking hours of work he puts in—'Last light on the Kirchenkogel' is priced at €8,500.

The artworks hung in the Carat Centre, which takes its inspiration and design from the branding of the Ötztal Valley area as 'The Diamond of the Alps'. The majority of his work is oil on canvas but he's even decorated a pair of bespoke PFD (Pure Freeride Design) skis constructed from bamboo. They too were on show at the Carat Centre.

After all, L S Lowry painted on scraps of cardboard. Let's pause a moment and consider. The skis/artwork are priced at €2,500. The skis from the factory would cost you €1,499. So Adam's artwork comes out at €1,044. Pretty good value for a unique piece I reckon. "Prices are hard to gauge," he said, "the market makes its own mind up". The record price for a Turner is €4,225m ('Rome from Mount Aventine') so he has a way to go to match that. I ask Adam if he thinks they should be used or mounted on the wall? "Not for me to say!" he laughed, "Whoever buys them can decide".

Although most of his work is in oil a beautiful little watercolour caught my eye. Entitled 'Beyond the Cabins', it depicts a tent lit from the inside, with a sparkling moon behind. "I learnt Arctic bushcraft from Ray Mears. We were in Swedish Lapland. This is a Sami Lavvu camp of the type used for thousands of years to house the Sami reindeer herders". Adam's eye for detail, deep empathy with his subject, and his delicate technical finesse have all gone into this. Maybe I should start saving up.

The Obergurgl exhibition is by no means his first. Last year the 'Cathedral Gallery', the highest art exhibition space in the Alps at the Arlberg Hospiz Hotel, St Christoph, hosted his successful solo show. He's in demand. Looking further ahead, and strictly hush hush, I understand that the Spectre 007 Elements centre in Sölden have made enquiries. The call probably went something like this...

"Choose your next exhibition carefully, Mr Attew — it may be your last"

"Do you expect me to ski?"

"No, Mr Attew, I expect you to paint!"

A gallery of Adam's work can be viewed at www.adamattew.com

Obergurgl

TELL ME MORE ABOUT ARTIST ADAM ATTEW

---

Visit the Austrian Tourist Board more information on Austria.

SHARE

---

---

LEAVE A REPLY

Your email address will not be published.

Comment

Name

Email

☒ Sign me up for the TripReporter newsletter! Be the first to read about all our new content.

Post Comment

LIKED THIS STORY? YOU MIGHT LIKE THESE TOO.

Hiking the Brandenburg Alps

Skiing in Ischgl and Kappl

Hotel Rasmushof, Kitzbühel

Where would you like to travel to?

Search For...

Search

Born Before 1973?

You Could Get Up To £72,565 | insurance Payout for £10 pm

LATEST TWEETS

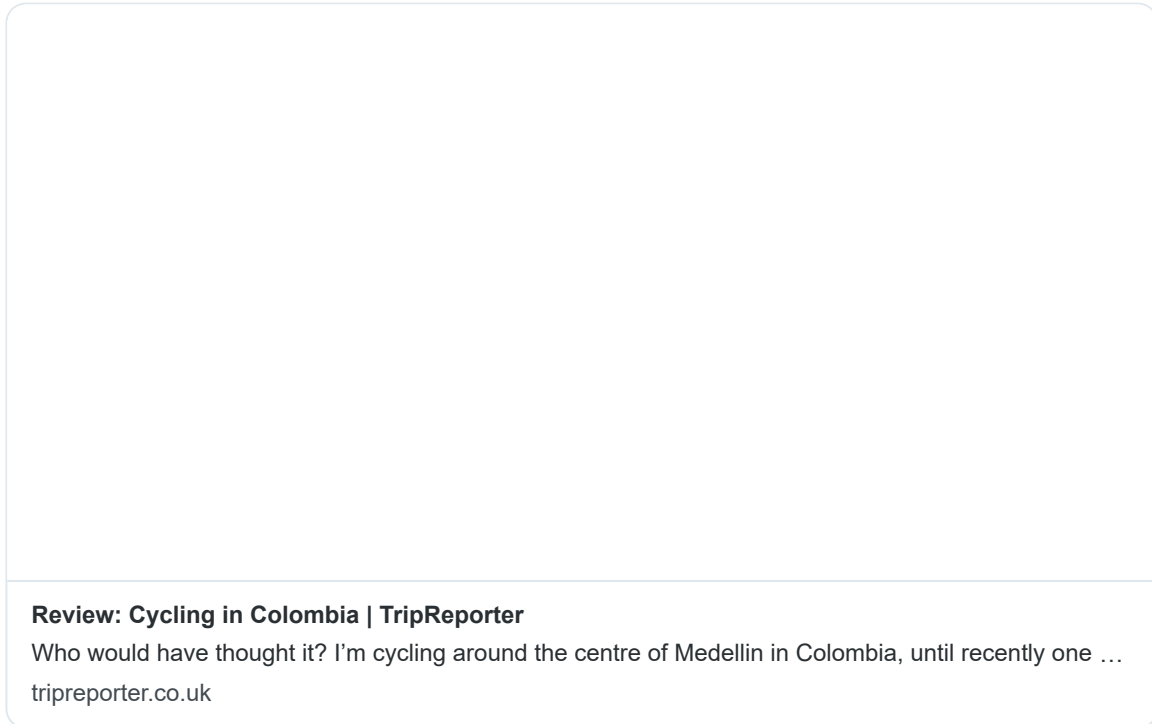

---

Tweets by @trippyreporter

TripReporter
@trippyreporter

Hiking and Cycling in Colombia rviv.ly/7j62NK

Review: Cycling in Colombia | TripReporter

Who would have thought it? I'm cycling around the centre of Medellin in Colombia, until recently one ...
tripreporter.co.uk

Embed

View on Twitter

SIGN UP FOR YOUR FREE TRIPREPORTER NEWSLETTER

Want to know about the latest trip, hotel and restaurant reviews on TripReporter? Get news about all the latest content by receiving your personal newsletter. Just fill in the fields below and click subscribe and the latest edition of the TripReporter newsletter will drop into your inbox.

First Name:

Last Name:

Email Address:

Subscribe

POLL

---

Brexit: Should the EU try harder to stop the UK leaving without a deal?

- ☐ Yes. They must work out a solution.
- ☐ No. They clearly do not need the UK

Vote

View Results

Where would you like to travel to?

Trip Reporter Travel Destinations

Nîmes Occitanie Essaouira Cruising Reviews newsletter Golf Course Reviews Trip Gear Reports Travel News
Restaurant Reviews Hotel Reviews Trip Reviews South America Asia Africa Australasia North America
Europe and Middle East

Home About Us Contact us TripReporter Archives Site Map

Copyright 2020 www.tripreporter.co.uk. All content and images unless otherwise specified cannot be used or reproduced without permission.